

Understanding The

Market Place

Presented by Rofrane BOUAKSA

What is The

Market Place

An online platform that connects sellers (businesses or individuals) with buyers. It does not necessarily sell its own products but provides a space where multiple sellers can offer goods or services to customers.

Example: Amazon, Etsy, Airbnb.

Why create a

Market Place

Here are some clear reasons and advantages to show that create a marketplace can be a smart move:

1. Scalability – you don't need to own the products; your platform grows as sellers join.
 2. Revenue streams – you can earn money from commissions, subscription fees, ads, or premium services.
 3. Network effects – the more sellers and buyers you have, the more attractive your marketplace becomes.
 4. Lower inventory risk – unlike a traditional store, you don't need to manage stock.
 5. Flexibility – you can specialize (ex: only handmade products, local services, rentals) or go broad.
 6. High demand – people are increasingly using marketplaces for convenience and variety.
- In short: Creating a marketplace lets you connect supply and demand efficiently while building a scalable, low-risk, and profitable business model.
